HELLO! WE'RE ALLY + BRAD.

We're the co-founders of Meaningful Marketing, and we'd love to work with Landforce.

ALLY STOLTZ LABRIOLA BRAD LABRIOLA

One of our main goals when we work with nonprofits is simple: make your life easier, not harder. We do the heavy lifting, and we work hard to make the whole process feel seamless for your team, your stakeholders and everyone in between.

We bring that same philosophy to websites. Updating your site, making changes, adding pages, collecting info through forms and portals, syncing inventory: it should all be easy. That's why we recommend moving Landforce off WordPress to a custom-built site. We'll share more on why in the pages ahead, but it's what we're doing day in and day out for our clients right now, and it's amazing to watch the creativity that gets unlocked when a team finally has a site that's easy to use, easy to update, smart, and ready to grow with them.

Working with nonprofits for so long, we get it and we get it done. We treat your budget like it's our own money. We're scrappy, we're frugal, and we hustle, just like our clients do.

A little about us: Brad is from Pennsylvania and Ally is from California, so we split our year, half in Downingtown, PA and half in San Clemente, CA. We also have a 3-year-old and a 6-year-old, so we know a thing or two about multitasking, delivering on or ahead of schedule, and negotiating with very small, very persuasive stakeholders.

We'd be honored to do this work with you.

Best,

Ally Stoltz LaBriola

TRUSTED BY MISSION-DRIVEN ORGANIZATIONS WORLDWIDE

01 UNDERSTANDING OF LANDFORCE

The biggest challenge is clarity. Workforce Development, Land Stewardship and Responsible Wood Production share one mission but serve very different audiences, and visitors currently have to work to see how it all fits. A Crew Member, a lumber buyer, a municipal client and a donor should each quickly understand what Landforce is and where they belong.

■ WHAT WE ALREADY SEE

- Workforce Development is the thread, not a silo. Stewardship and RWP are the pathways through which people build skills and careers.
- RWP needs a customer-facing experience that works like a business while staying connected to the mission.
- The website should be organized around intent: work with Landforce, hire environmental services, buy wood, support Landforce.
- Impact should appear everywhere, not only on an impact page.
- Staff should be freed from a clunky WordPress setup, so they communicate what they want rather than what the page builder allows.

02 RECOMMENDED APPROACH

■ DISCOVERY + PARTICIPATION

Audit of brand, website, analytics, content, social, photography and technology. A kickoff workshop; 8 to 10 leadership, staff and board interviews; one Crew Member and alumni session (6 to 8 participants, $50 each, included); 4 to 6 external interviews (clients, RWP customers and suppliers, employers, funders); and a short survey to Landforce's email list. In-person, remote and asynchronous methods keep staff burden low.

A few of the questions we'd ask in every focus group:

1 If Landforce were a car, what would it be, and why?

2 If Landforce were a tool in the shed, which one would it be?

3 If Landforce walked into a party, what would people say about them on the drive home?

4 What's one word you would never want someone to use to describe Landforce?

5 Finish this sentence: "Landforce is the only organization that..."

■ BRAND ARCHITECTURE + NAMING

First, a little love for what you've built. Landforce's current brand was built by an organization busy doing the actual work, and it got you here! What it's missing now is a system that can carry three distinct lines of work, including an RWP business that needs to sell lumber, without starting to look like three different organizations. We have done this before + we have a vision for Landforce to do it too.

For the brand architecture and naming, we will go through the whole process with you. Anyone proposing branding ideas already is skipping the most important part, listening to your staff, Crew Members, partners and customers. We come in with a truly blank slate.

What we do know is that your new brand will exude cool, because Landforce and what you all do is really dang cool! But cool can look a lot of ways. We looked at your social media and spotted some fonts, colors and treatments that we think are hitting at something, and they give us hints of where we might go. But again, let's listen and learn first.

From there, we test unified, endorsed and hybrid options with your audiences and we see what is best for your organization and where you're headed.

At the end of our brand audit, our deliverables will include what you've asked for:

Brand architecture recommendation and rationale, positioning, value propositions, messaging hierarchy, naming and descriptors (including RWP and its products), preliminary name/domain/conflict screening, visual identity system, voice guidance and a practical brand guide with editable production-ready assets.

■ APPLICATIONS + SOCIAL MEDIA

Up to six priority applications or templates chosen in discovery, plus a social media system (Section 7).

■ WEBSITE STRATEGY

Content inventory and disposition plan, sitemap, navigation, user journeys for every priority action, wireframes tested with representative users before visual design, and a content governance plan.

■ CONTENT + PHOTOGRAPHY

We write or substantially rewrite up to 20 priority pages; Landforce verifies facts and approves. Photography in Section 7.

■ DESIGN

A design system and reusable component library, with enough distinction among the three areas to aid navigation without looking like three organizations.

■ DEVELOPMENT

We migrate your site from WordPress and build a custom site for Landforce with staff admin dashboards, Salesforce/Mailchimp forms, an RWP product catalog with inquiries, and a staff-editable impact section (Section 6). The site will display select products from Salesforce, with staff choosing which products appear. If Landforce's inventory tool isn't live by launch, we'll build the catalog ready to connect and complete the connection within this fee once the tool is ready (within 90 days of launch).

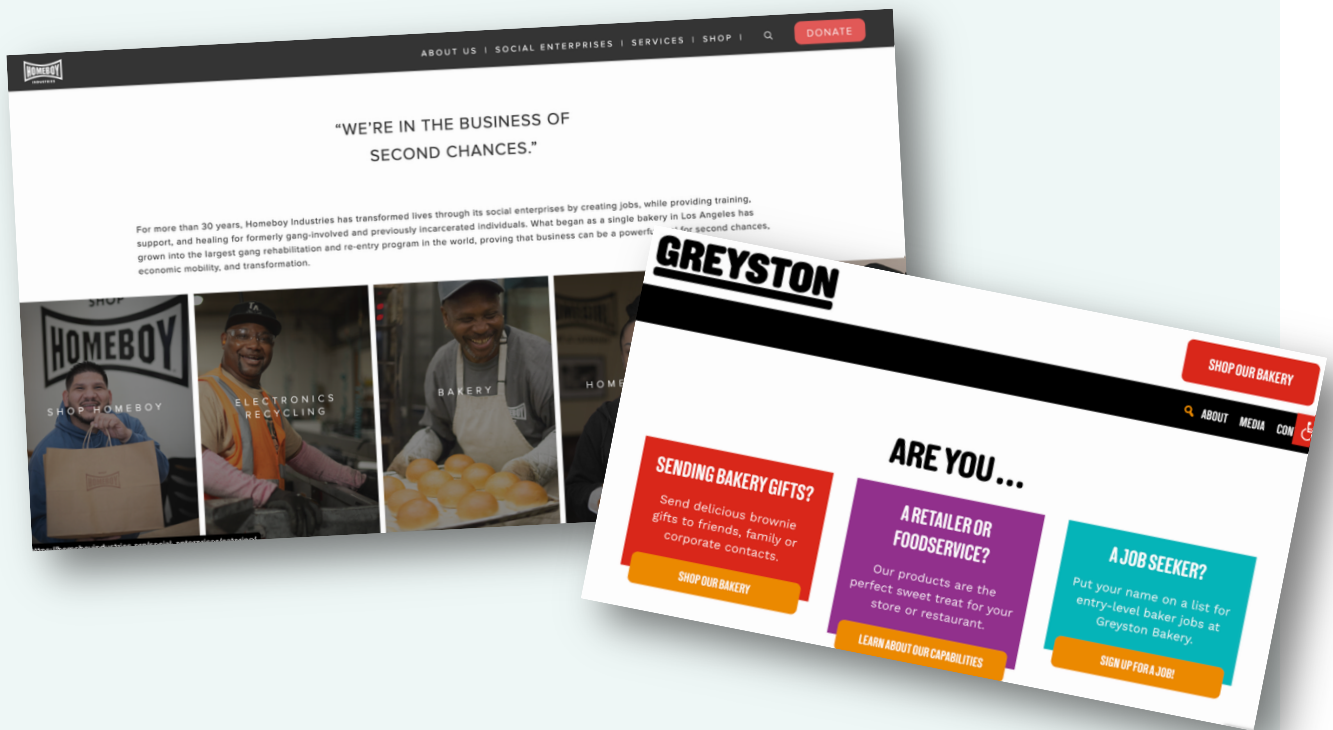

■ TESTING + LAUNCH

QA across devices, browsers, forms, integrations, accessibility, analytics, redirects and security; usability testing; migration, DNS, rollback plan, post-launch monitoring; and role-based staff training.

WHERE OUR HEAD IS AT WHEN WE THINK ABOUT LANDFORCE

Ally is originally from Los Angeles and volunteered with Homeboy Industries back in the day, so it immediately came to mind as a good example of what Landforce needs to do.

Homeboy has one overarching mission centered on workforce development, but delivers that mission through multiple businesses and services, each serving a different audience. Their bakery, café, catering and other social enterprises need to work as real customer-facing businesses while still clearly connecting back to the larger mission

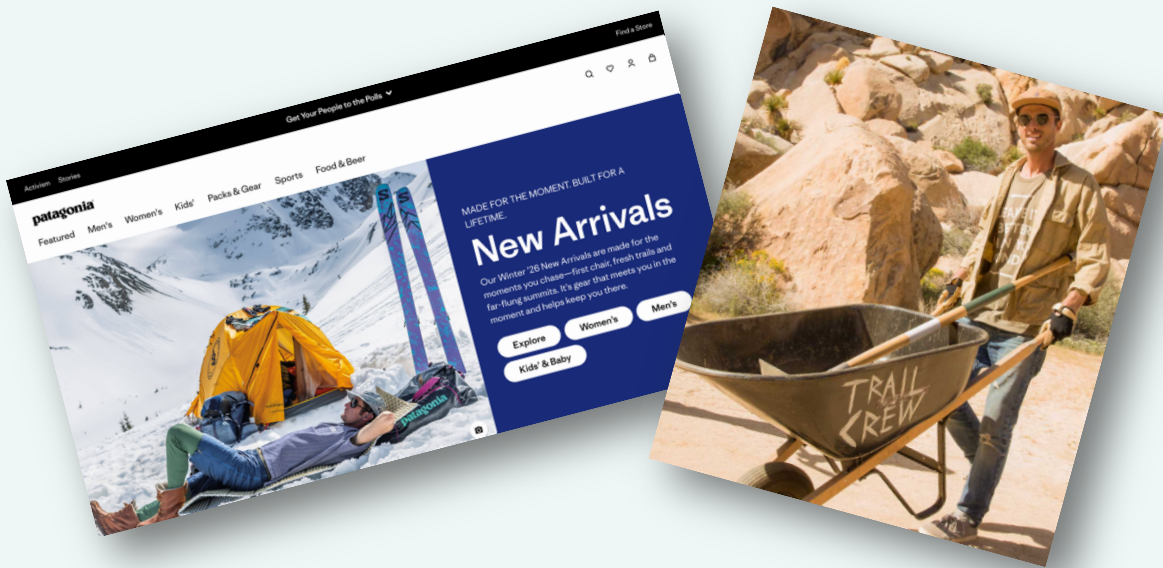

Landforce has a similar opportunity. Workforce Development can be the thread running through the organization, while Land Stewardship and Responsible Wood Production each have a clear experience designed around their specific customers and audiences.

Another great example is Greyston Bakery. Greyston operates as a real customer-facing business, while employment and workforce development remain central to its mission. The bakery needs to make sense to someone who simply wants to buy a product, while job seekers, partners and supporters can quickly find the path relevant to them. That separation of audiences, without losing the connection to one larger mission, is a useful model for Landforce.

We should also say that we actually don't think Homeboy and Greyston's websites are all that lovely looking, but we like how they communicate who they are. We think we can apply that when working with Landforce in terms of writing copy, organizing content.

But we want the design of the new Landforce site to be next level, so we're also thinking of brands like Patagonia, which blends a mission with real products and has a beautiful site we can learn from. Vibe-wise, we also see Parks Project as a bit of a DNA match for Landforce as well.

The key insight from all of these orgs is that you do not need to force every audience through an explanation of the organizational structure first. Let them enter through what they need.

Workforce development is the engine. Land stewardship and responsible wood production are where the training, employment and environmental impact happen.

From a design perspective, we think there's a real opportunity to make Landforce feel different from a typical nonprofit or workforce development website. We're thinking giant real photography, crews shown as skilled craftspeople, beautiful shots of finished landscapes and lumber, close-ups of tools, wood and hands. The work itself is so visual and interesting that it should become a big part of the brand and the website's visual identity.

03 WORK PLAN + TEAM

MONTH	PHASE + KEY WORK	DECISION GATE	LANDFORCE STAFF TIME
Nov 2026	Discovery: kickoff, audits, interviews, survey, technical/Salesforce mapping	Findings review	Elijah 4 hrs/wk; CEO 2 hrs/wk; interviewees 1 hr each
Dec 2026	Brand architecture, positioning, messaging, naming, audience testing	Architecture approved	Elijah 3 hrs/wk; CEO 2 hrs/wk
Jan 2027	Visual identity, brand guide, applications, sitemap, wireframes	Brand complete Jan 31	Elijah 3 hrs/wk; reviewers 2 hrs each
Feb 2027	Design, development, dashboards, forms, content, indoor photography	Design approved	Elijah 3 hrs/wk; content reviewers 2 to 3 hrs each
Mar 2027	QA, accessibility, usability testing, training, launch	Launch Mar 31	Elijah 4 hrs/wk; 4 editors 3 hrs training
Apr to May 2027	Outdoor spring photography added to site	Final images	Scheduling only

Approvals + changes. Elijah consolidates feedback; the CEO and board committee approve at each gate. Website design starts only after the architecture is approved. Main risks are delayed approvals and stakeholder access; any change to scope, schedule or cost is documented and approved in writing before work proceeds.

ALLY STOLTZ LABRIOLA

CO-FOUNDER · PROJECT LEAD · STRATEGY, BRAND + WEB

Ally is your day-to-day project lead and main point of contact from kickoff through launch. She manages the timeline, runs meetings and approvals, leads brand strategy and content, and designs and builds the website herself. She earned her degree in Business Travel & Tourism and Marketing from Loyola Marymount University and started her career in the field, coordinating international volunteer programs in Brazil's Amazon region. For 15+ years she has led PR, digital and marketing strategy for destinations and mission-driven organizations, including the tourism boards of Samoa, the Cook Islands, Papua New Guinea, Australia's Northern Territory and Pitcairn Islands. Today her nonprofit work includes TheSigmundProject.org and USTOA. Her specialty is untangling complicated stories so every audience finds its way in.

BRAD LABRIOLA

CO-FOUNDER · CREATIVE DIRECTOR · RESEARCH + STORYTELLING

Brad works behind the scenes on research and creative. On branding projects, he leads our focus groups and stakeholder interviews, getting Crew Members, staff and partners talking so the brand is built on what people actually say. He also shapes the visual direction, photography and video storytelling. A director, producer and editor focused on independent film and nonprofit video, Brad holds an MFA from the UCLA Producers Program and has produced films on four continents in five languages. His work has always centered on listening to people tell their stories and translating them into visuals they feel truly represented by, often featuring real people instead of actors and writing scripts in their own words after a first interview.

04 CASE STUDIES + REFERENCES

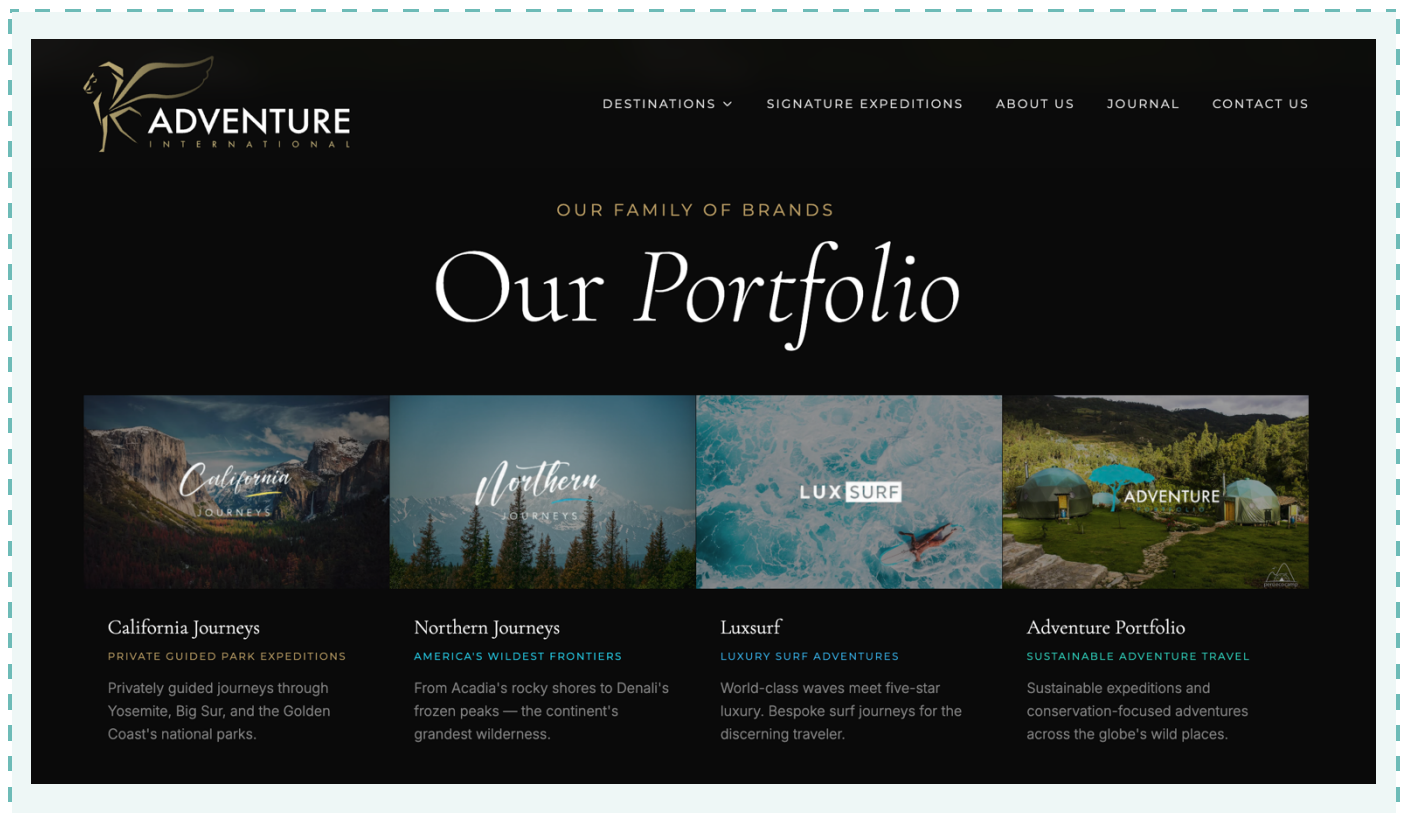

01 Adventure International: clarifying a complex organization

Adventure International had grown over decades into a business spanning destinations, its own travel brands, proprietary camps and specialized experiences. The old site held a wealth of information, but its strongest differentiators were buried, pages had become repetitive, and visitors struggled to see how each offering connected to the larger story.

We worked directly with the co-founder to rethink both the content and the digital experience. We created one consistent structure for every destination page, combining the company's story in that place, clear differentiators, big visual storytelling and practical trip details. Rather than asking the client to write polished copy, we used conversations and voice notes to capture decades of knowledge, then turned it into structured web content. We refined navigation so key parts of the portfolio were easy to find, built repeatable page templates that fit very different offerings while still feeling like one organization, and carried the project all the way through launch, including the domain and DNS transition and post-launch testing. More at www.Adventure-International.com.

WHY THIS MATTERS FOR LANDFORCE

Same challenge, different industry: several distinct offerings that need to feel like one organization. We know how to find the clearest story, turn staff knowledge into great content without burdening the team, and build reusable page templates that grow with you.

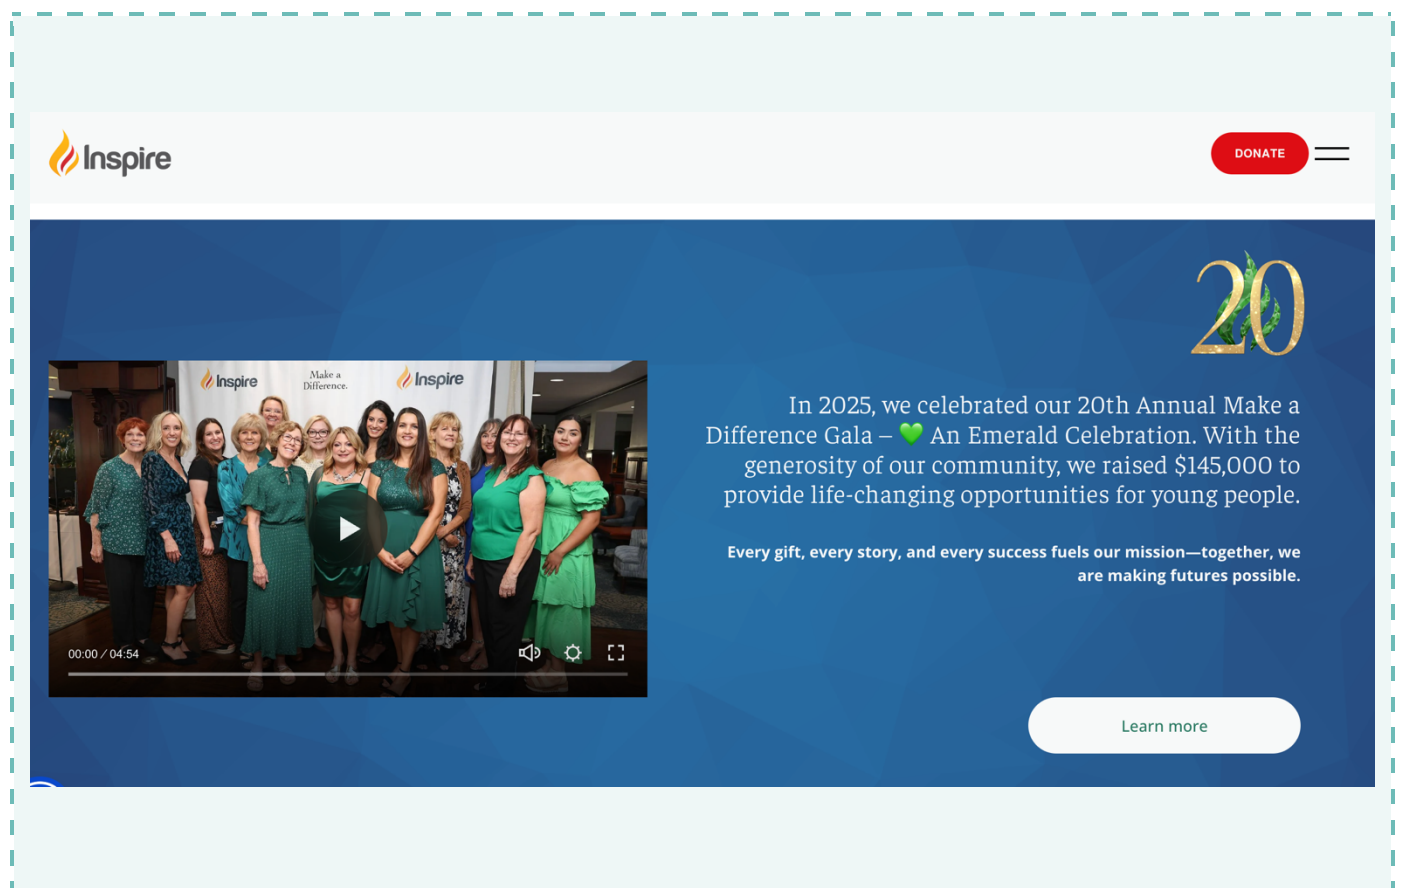

02 Inspire Life Skills Training: one story, every channel

For Inspire's 20th anniversary we carried one brand story across everything: the website, a sold-out anniversary gala, branding on physical products, event presentation slides, email marketing, social media templates for celebrating graduates and a printed year-end letter. More at

<https://www.inspirelifefutures.org/inspire-blog/inspires-20th-make-a-difference-gala-2025>

WHY THIS MATTERS FOR LANDFORCE

Landforce needs people-first storytelling that shows up everywhere, from the website to signage to recruitment materials. We've done exactly that for a nonprofit that helps young people build their futures.

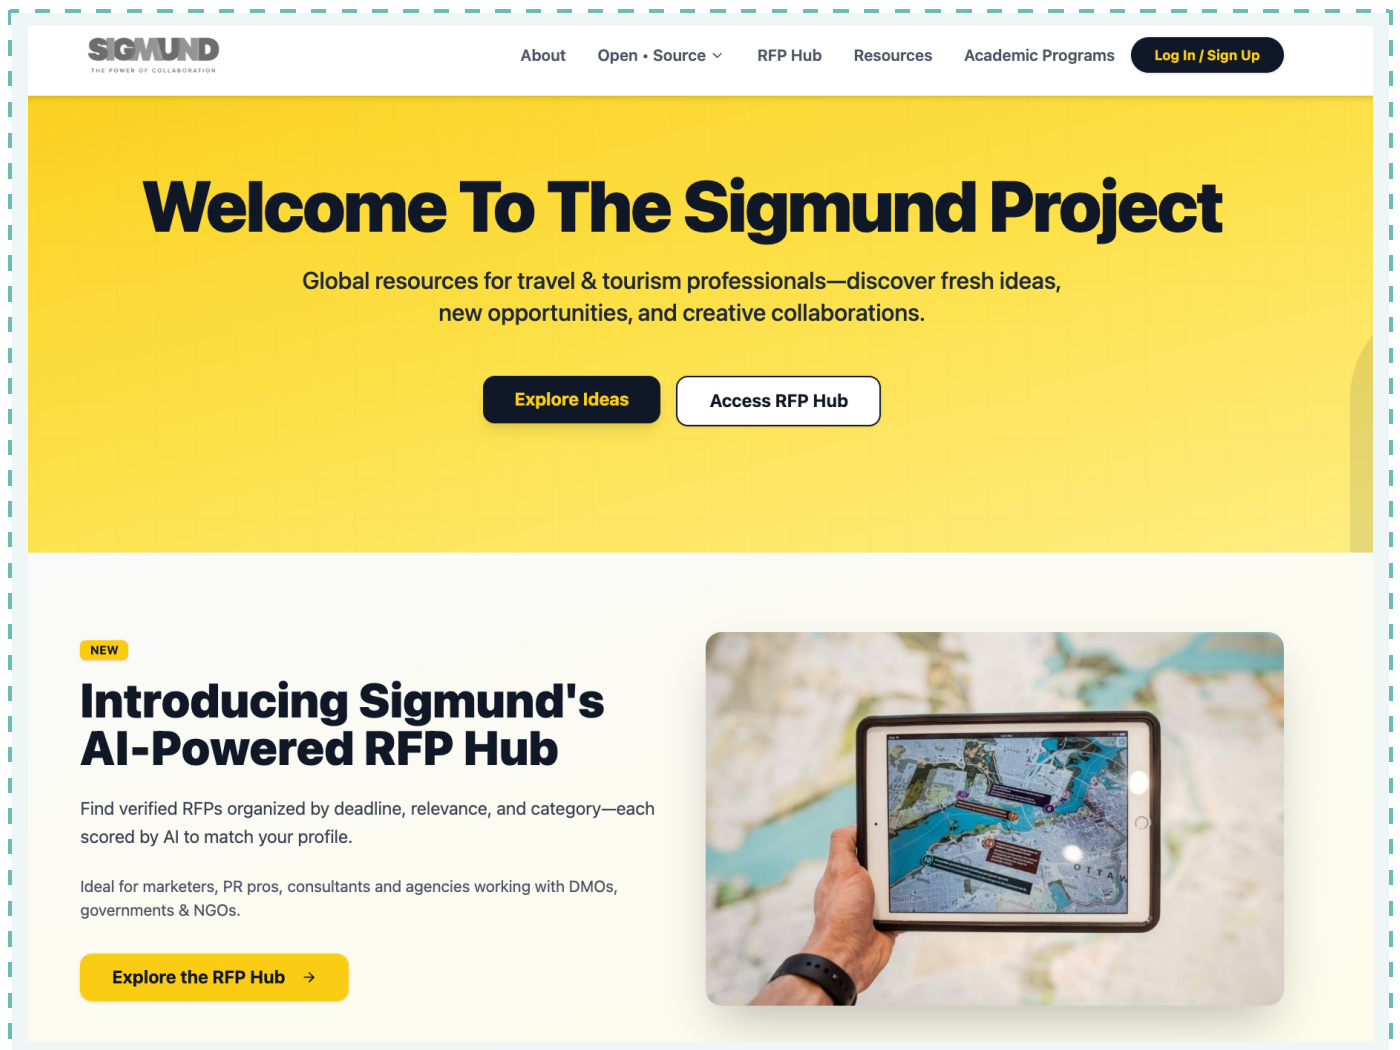

The screenshot shows a website banner for Inspire's 20th anniversary. The top left features the Inspire logo, and the top right has a red 'DONATE' button. The main content area has a dark blue background. On the left is a video player showing a group of women in green dresses standing in front of a backdrop that reads 'Inspire Make a Difference'. A large play button is centered over the video. To the right of the video, the number '20' is displayed in a large, gold, stylized font. Below the '20', the text reads: 'In 2025, we celebrated our 20th Annual Make a Difference Gala – 🍷 An Emerald Celebration. With the generosity of our community, we raised $145,000 to provide life-changing opportunities for young people.' Below this, a smaller line of text states: 'Every gift, every story, and every success fuels our mission—together, we are making futures possible.' At the bottom right of the banner is a white 'Learn more' button.

03 TheSigmundProject.org: building and evolving a multi-audience brand

When we work with a client, we often say we're joining the team, not just working as an outside contractor. Nothing proves that more than our work with TheSigmundProject.org. We created its brand from scratch and launched its site, and after working together, the founder asked Ally to serve as Director of the nonprofit. Getting that ingrained in the organization helped us see how to fund and sustainably grow its nonprofit arm, which led us to create the RFP Hub, a paid product now on track to bring in $50,000 this year. Along the way, TheSigmundProject.org grew into a community of 10,000+ tourism professionals with several distinct audiences, and the platform moved from Squarespace to a custom build with a member portal and user-generated content.

WHY THIS MATTERS FOR LANDFORCE

Like RWP, TheSigmundProject.org's RFP Hub is a business that helps fund a mission. We know how to give an earned-revenue arm its own place without pulling focus from the mission.

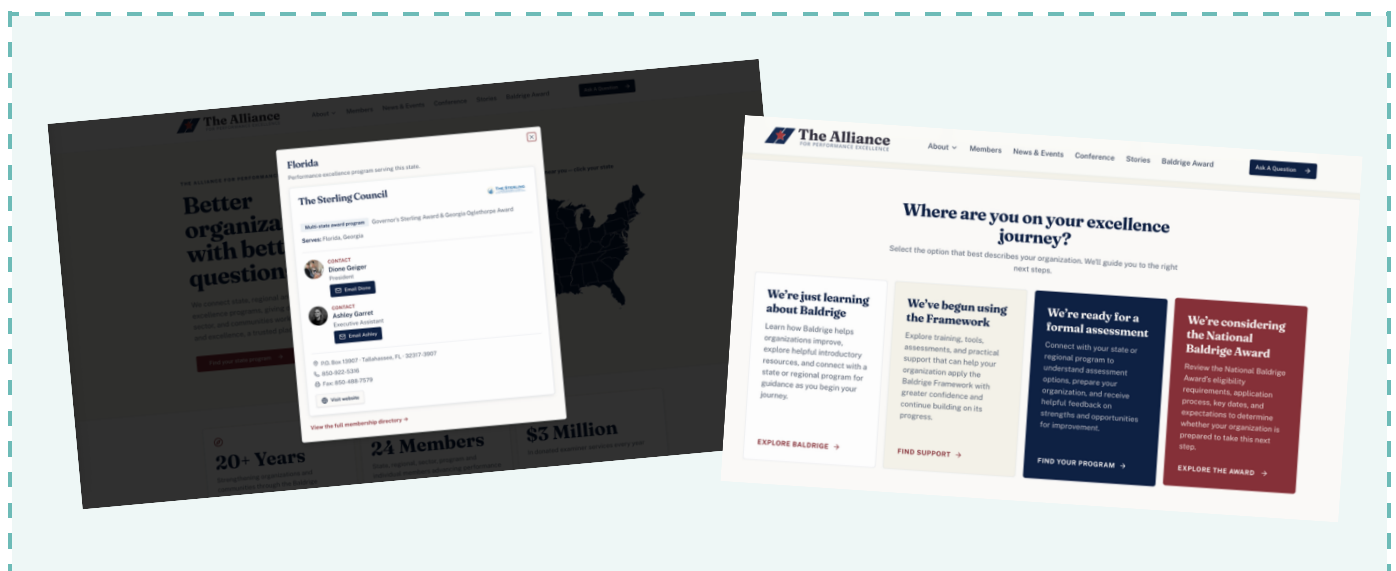

+ Bonus: BaldrigeAlliance.org

Launching this week. The Alliance had taken on the national Baldrige Award process on top of supporting its network of state and regional programs, which meant new audiences, new services and a much more complicated story, all on a rigid WordPress site. Working with leadership, staff and the marketing committee, we simplified the information architecture so visitors can understand Baldrige, connect with a state or regional program, explore assessment or pursue the national award without first learning the Alliance's internal structure. We rebuilt BaldrigeAlliance.org as a custom web application serving internal staff, existing members, and companies and communities looking for a member near them. Highlights:

- Interactive national member map and a richer member directory.
- AI site assistant grounded only in Alliance content, with anonymized questions. Real visitor questions become AI-suggested FAQ additions that admins approve or reject, and exportable quarterly reports show what audiences don't understand.
- Interactive program finder that points each visitor to the right program.
- Self-service member portal: members update their own profiles, privacy settings and directory visibility, and people representing more than one organization switch between them from one account. Profiles were pre-populated from the master spreadsheet, so members found them about 90% complete on first login.
- Member event submissions with an admin approval workflow.
- Custom admin portal with Super Admin, editor and member permission levels. Staff invite and manage users, edit pages and manage logos, members, resources, events, FAQs, announcements and pop-ups.
- Automations: auto-updating member counts, spam-protected directory contacts, award-date notification signups (Constant Contact integration planned) and conference pages that turn into recaps and archives after each event.
- Clean migration and launch: news, events, member records and media migrated; full legacy URL mapping to protect SEO; an archived copy of the old site; and a soft launch ahead of the annual conference to test before full rollout.

WHY THIS MATTERS FOR LANDFORCE

This is the closest match to what we're proposing for Landforce: a move off WordPress to a custom site with staff dashboards, several audiences and room to grow.

WHAT OUR CLIENTS SAY

Working with Meaningful Marketing was a genuine pleasure. Strategic, responsive, and they delivered exactly what they promised. You can tell they have been doing this for a while. They get it.

Campaign Client
MARKETING & STRATEGY

Their expertise in delivering high-quality video content was impressive. Their ability to see the content potential in existing footage and turn it into a full campaign is a real skill.

Video Production Client
CONTENT & VIDEO

Their AI consulting and team training sessions were the most practical and useful professional development our team has had. We left with tools we could use immediately.

AI & Innovation Client
AI TRAINING

They don't just deliver content. They deliver strategy that works. Their ability to understand our goals and translate them into a clear narrative is a consistent strength.

Creative Strategy Client
STRATEGY & STORYTELLING

Meaningful Marketing are excellent at what they do and a pleasure to work with. I found myself looking forward to our calls and leaving each one with clear next steps.

Retainer Client
ONGOING PARTNERSHIP

They took our team's idea, which was really only an idea, and brought it to life across video, digital, and live channels. Executed cleanly and on brief.

Integrated Campaign Client

Hosting, licenses, maintenance, and post-launch support	$0	Support $125/hr, no retainer	Est. $50 to $75/mo	Hosting, database, domain; Lovable optional
Travel, incentives, fabrication, installation, and other expenses	$0	Printing/fabrication at cost		Remote-first
Total	$40,000		Est. $50 to $75/mo

WHAT $40,000 COVERS

Everything needed to launch the new brand and core website, including discovery, brand architecture and identity, up to 6 brand applications, social templates, 20 priority pages, photography, design, development, forms and integrations, an RWP catalog built to display select Salesforce products once Landforce's inventory tool is live, a staff-editable impact section, testing, training and a 30-day warranty.

NOT INCLUDED

Printing, fabrication and installation, legal trademark clearance, video, ongoing social media or website support, monthly hosting fees, and the future-phase features below.

PAYMENT SCHEDULE

25% $10,000 at kickoff	25% $10,000 at brand architecture approval	25% $10,000 at website design approval	25% $10,000 at launch
-----------------------------------	---	---	----------------------------------

FUTURE PHASES

We'll plan the base architecture with these in mind so they can be added later without rebuilding the site. Fees below are preliminary ranges; final scope and pricing would be confirmed once Landforce's systems and needs are clear.

ENHANCEMENT	FEE	EARLIEST TIMING
Advanced Salesforce inventory syncing (live availability, automated updates)	$3,500 to $7,500	Once the RWP inventory tool is live
RWP ecommerce, reservations or quoting	$4,000 to $8,000	After the RWP business plan is final
Automated interactive impact dashboard	$2,500 to $5,000	Once metrics are structured
Carbon-retention display	$2,000 to $4,000	Once methodology is set
Video, translation, ongoing social or site support	$125/hr or quoted	Any time

06 TECHNOLOGY + OPERATIONS

We recommend a custom site built in Lovable, with code in a Landforce-owned GitHub repository. Lovable is a development tool, not a lock-in: staff manage the site through custom dashboards we build, whether or not Landforce keeps Lovable after launch. Think WordPress, but easier and more fun.

AREA	APPROACH
CMS	Custom role-based admin dashboards for pages, stories, projects, recruitment, RWP products, impact stats and calls to action
Hosting	Vercel + Supabase (or comparable), in Landforce's accounts; managed updates and automated backups
Ownership	Landforce owns its domain, code, content, data, accounts, credentials and design files
Integrations	Salesforce and Mailchimp retained; every current form rebuilt and mapped, plus RWP inquiry and log donation forms; PayPal retained unless discovery suggests otherwise; we coordinate with Landforce's Salesforce vendor
Accessibility	WCAG 2.2 AA built into design, development and QA
Privacy + security	Review of applicant/referral data, consent, retention and permissions; legal questions flagged to Landforce
SEO + analytics	Redirects, metadata, schema, local SEO for Stewardship and RWP, GA4, Search Console, conversion tracking, Ad Grant evaluation
Migration	Approved content, key historical documents and media per the disposition plan
Training	Live role-based training for 4 editors, recordings and written guides
Warranty + support	30-day warranty; then $125/hr as needed, 2-business-day response (same day for outages)

07 PHOTOGRAPHY + SOCIAL MEDIA

■ PHOTOGRAPHY ($2,000 ALLOWANCE, INCLUDED)

Two half-day sessions: winter indoor (training, coaching, The Mill, milling, lumber) before launch, and spring outdoor (Stewardship projects, log pickup) in April or May. We provide the shot list and creative direction and deliver 60 to 80 edited images. Landforce receives unlimited organizational usage rights, consistent with the grant's federal/state license. Landforce schedules participants and collects releases using a consent form we provide; existing released images are reused where suitable. Additional half days: $1,000 each.

■ SOCIAL MEDIA (INCLUDED)

Channel structure recommendation (including whether areas share accounts), content categories, visual conventions, cross-promotion, calls to action, up to 6 editable templates and a one-hour staff training. Ongoing management is not included.

08 RESPONSIBILITIES, EXCEPTIONS + CONFLICTS

Landforce provides: a day-to-day lead; access to staff, stakeholders, participants and contact lists; existing brand files, photos and program information; platform access; Salesforce vendor coordination; photo releases; consolidated, timely feedback; and fact verification and final approvals.

Exceptions: English-only launch; printing, fabrication, installation, video and legal trademark clearance excluded; advanced RWP commerce and automated impact data are future phases.

Proprietary tools: none required. All project assets, code and files transfer to Landforce on final payment, subject to the grant's license; pre-existing tools and third-party software remain with their owners.

Conflicts of interest: none known. We will comply with the debarment/suspension certification, EEO, Title VI and other grant requirements in the final contract.
